Northstar Air | NSA

Document version 2.0

Effective 2026-01-01 at 00:00:00 UTC

A full-service airline offering flexible travel choices.

1. Scope and definitions

This is a fictional policy publication. All airlines, rules, places, contacts and examples in this document are invented. It applies only to tickets issued by this airline for flights operated by this airline, including direct and travel-agency sales. Other carriers, codeshares, group contracts and award tickets are outside its scope.

The document governs requests received on or after its effective date. These rules apply regardless of original ticket issuance date. Earlier request dates are outside this publication. A reissue does not change the original ticket issuance timestamp for policy selection.

Flight segment means one scheduled takeoff and landing. An itinerary comprises all segments on one passenger ticket. A booking may contain several passenger tickets. Travel has started once any segment on that ticket has been flown. A wholly unused ticket has no flown segments.

Domestic means both endpoints of a segment are in the fictional Republic of Aster; all other segments are international. Route type is assessed per segment for changes and baggage. For voluntary cancellation, an itinerary is international if any segment is international; otherwise it is domestic.

1.1 Time and money conventions

All timestamps and elapsed-time calculations use UTC, without daylight-saving adjustments. Departure proximity is measured from receipt of a complete, authorized request to the scheduled departure time then recorded on the ticket. For a change, use each affected segment; for cancellation of a wholly unused ticket, use its first segment. A pending incomplete request does not preserve an earlier deadline.

The early window is 24 hours or more before departure, including exactly 24 hours. The late window is less than 24 hours but more than 0 hours. At exactly departure time or later, Section 5 applies. All money is USD; listed fees include any fee-related taxes.

2. Fare types and voluntary changes

Economy Basic, Economy Standard and Economy Flex describe the fare purchased on each ticket. A higher cabin-baggage allowance or a paid extra does not upgrade a fare. A ticket uses one fare type throughout; mixed-fare tickets require manual review under Section 9.

2.1 Change fee schedule

The following fees apply per passenger, per changed flight segment, per completed change request. Multiply by the number of passengers and changed segments. No additional per-booking fee is charged. A new request after a completed change is charged separately.

Fare	Early: at least 24 hours	Late: more than 0, less than 24 hours
Economy Basic	USD 70	Not permitted
Economy Standard	USD 25	USD 60
Economy Flex	USD 0	USD 0

2.2 Fare difference and permitted changes

Every permitted change also requires payment of any positive fare difference for each affected passenger and segment, even when the change fee is USD 0. Fare difference is the new segment fare minus the old segment fare, excluding taxes and optional extras. A lower fare creates no refund or credit and cannot offset a change fee. Changes in unused government taxes are collected or returned to the original payment method separately.

Date or departure-time changes are allowed only where the table permits, subject to seat availability. Airline, passenger and route endpoint substitutions are not covered by a voluntary change; contact the service desk for review. You may retain or upgrade the fare type, but not downgrade it. The existing fare determines the change fee; the replacement fare governs later requests.

2.3 Travel already started

After travel starts, changes to remaining unflown segments follow this table using each segment departure time, provided no no-show has occurred. A missed segment takes priority over these rules. Voluntary refunds of partly used tickets are handled only under Section 9.

Example: two Economy Standard travelers change two segments each in the early window. Fees are $2 \times 2 \times \text{USD } 25 = \text{USD } 100$. If each changed segment costs USD 30 more, total additional payment is USD 220, assuming unchanged taxes and no extras.

3. Voluntary cancellation and refunds

This section applies when you choose not to travel and Section 6 does not apply. The table covers cancellation of the entire wholly unused itinerary for each selected passenger. Cancellation fees are per passenger, per itinerary, not per segment or per booking.

Fare	Early: at least 24 hours	Late: more than 0, less than 24 hours
Economy Basic	No fare refund or credit	No fare refund or credit
Economy Standard	Travel credit less USD 40	Travel credit less USD 80
Economy Flex	Original payment; USD 0 fee	Original payment; USD 0 fee

3.1 Amount and payment destination

Fare means the ticket amount excluding separately itemized government taxes and optional services. Where the table allows a refund or credit, subtract the stated fee from the eligible fare; the result cannot be below USD 0. No additional balance is collected when the fee exceeds the fare. Unused government taxes are returned to the original payment method on request for every fare, including non-refundable fares and no-shows.

An original-payment refund returns to the payment instrument used for the original purchase. Paying for another traveler does not make the fare transferable. A travel credit is issued in the named passenger's name, cannot be transferred or exchanged for cash, and may be used only with this airline. Unused credit remains available until expiry.

3.2 Credit validity and optional services

A credit expires exactly 365 elapsed days after issue. It must be redeemed before that instant; redemption at the expiry instant is not permitted. The new travel must also begin before that expiry instant. There is no extension under the standard policy.

Purchased baggage and seat extras are non-refundable for a voluntary cancellation. On an eligible date/time change, unused extras transfer to the same passenger and route without a transfer fee, subject to availability; unavailable services require manual review. No automatic cash refund is promised for unavailable extras.

4. Cancellation scope

One traveler may cancel their own whole ticket without cancelling other travelers in the booking, after authority is verified. A request to cancel selected segments only, or any refund after a segment has been flown, requires Section 9 review; do not apply the whole-ticket table to an assumed remaining balance.

5. No-shows

A traveler is a no-show if no complete authorized change/cancellation request was received before departure and the traveler does not take that flight. At exactly departure time, a new voluntary request is too late and receives no-show treatment. All remaining segments are suspended pending service-desk contact; there is no automatic reinstatement. The remaining fare has no standard refund or credit, including Flex. Unused government taxes remain refundable. A qualifying airline disruption under Section 6 takes precedence; medical circumstances may be reviewed under Section 9.

6. Airline-initiated disruptions

These protections apply when the airline cancels a segment or makes a qualifying schedule change. They override the voluntary fare restrictions, change fees and no-show loss of value in Sections 2, 3 and 5 for the affected journey. A passenger choosing to cancel for personal reasons without a qualifying event remains subject to the voluntary rules.

6.1 Qualifying events

A cancellation by Northstar Air qualifies for all fare types. A schedule change qualifies when the absolute difference between the original and revised scheduled departure time of a segment is 120 minutes or more, including exactly 120 minutes, whether moved earlier or later. Smaller changes do not qualify under this document. Compare the latest notice with the schedule confirmed at original ticket issuance, not successive notice-to-notice differences.

6.2 Your choice

Option	What is included
Replacement travel	One rebooking on this airline to the same destination in the same fare type, within 7 calendar days before or after the original departure date, inclusive, subject to availability. No change fee or fare difference.
Refund before travel starts	For a wholly unused affected itinerary, refund its full fare, unused government taxes and all unused purchased extras to the original payment method. No cancellation fee, including Economy Basic.
Refund after travel starts	Manual review of the unflown portion and unused extras. The right to refund the unused affected portion remains; the amount and allocation require review. No refund is promised for flown segments.

You may choose a refund instead of a credit. A credit is never required as the only remedy. If no suitable replacement is available, the refund option remains. Choosing and completing a refund ends rebooking eligibility for the refunded ticket; the same value cannot be refunded twice.

6.3 Request period and later changes

Submit the choice within 30 elapsed days after the disruption notice timestamp, including exactly 30 days. After that period, eligibility requires manual review rather than automatic approval or rejection. If you accepted replacement travel and later change your mind for personal reasons, normal voluntary rules apply to the replacement ticket. A new qualifying disruption creates a new choice.

Keep the disruption notice and identify affected passengers and segments. A pending request does not itself confirm replacement seats. Hotel, meal and ground-transport compensation are not specified in this publication.

7. Cabin and checked baggage

Each passenger has one free personal item up to 40 x 30 x 15 cm and 3 kg. The cabin allowance below is additional to that personal item. All dimensions include handles and wheels; weights and dimension limits are inclusive. Allowances are per passenger on each segment and cannot be pooled between travelers.

Fare	Cabin bag allowance	Checked allowance
Economy Basic	1 cabin bag, 8 kg	1 bag, 23 kg
Economy Standard	1 cabin bag, 8 kg	1 bag, 23 kg
Economy Flex	1 cabin bag, 12 kg	2 bags, 23 kg each

Each permitted cabin bag must be no larger than 55 x 35 x 25 cm. Each checked bag must have length + width + height no greater than 158 cm. A bag must satisfy both its weight and size limit. Allowances do not combine into one heavier bag.

7.1 Purchased baggage

A second cabin bag cannot be purchased under this policy. Items beyond the cabin allowance must meet the checked-baggage rules or be reviewed before acceptance.

One additional checked bag may be purchased for USD 45 per passenger per segment, whether purchased online or at the airport. Its weight limit is 23 kg and its size limit is 158 cm in summed dimensions. This purchased-bag limit applies even when a free bag has a different weight limit. No more than one additional checked bag is covered by this price.

7.2 Items requiring advance review

Overweight, oversized or further additional bags require a service-desk quote and acceptance review; no fixed charge or acceptance guarantee is provided here. Do not assume that paying an additional-bag fee makes an overweight bag acceptable. Dangerous goods and special-equipment handling are outside this publication.

7.3 Segment-specific allowance

For a multi-segment journey, assess the allowance and any purchased bag charge on each segment. A baggage purchase covers only the passenger and segments shown on its receipt. A two-segment trip therefore incurs two charges for one additional bag carried on both segments.

Example: a Flex traveler may carry two separate checked bags weighing 23 kg each. A single 30 kg bag exceeds the per-bag limit and requires review even though the combined allowance is 46 kg.

8. Booking ownership and requests

The named adult traveler may request service for their own ticket after identity and booking details are verified. A booking reference, shared surname, or possession of payment details alone is not authority. A payer or lead booker may not change, cancel or view another adult traveler's private ticket information without that traveler's explicit authorization and identity verification.

A representative must supply the traveler's written authorization naming the representative, booking reference and permitted action, and complete service-desk verification of both identities. A parent or guardian requesting service for a minor must provide evidence of guardianship for manual verification. Never send full payment-card details or identity documents through an unverified channel.

8.1 How to submit a request

For direct bookings, use the fictional service portal <https://service.northstar-air.example> or email care@northstar-air.example to begin verification. These are fictional contact details and are not live services. For agency-issued tickets, contact the issuing agency; this airline's service desk can review disruption assistance but agency refunds are routed through the issuing agency to the original payment method.

Provide booking reference, traveler names, requested action, affected segments, original issuance timestamp and any disruption notice. The service desk verifies authority, identifies the applicable rule and provides a quote or review outcome. Confirm the quoted change or cancellation before execution. A quote alone does not alter a booking. A complete authorized request includes the required facts, verified authority and acceptance of any quoted charge; its receipt time determines the policy window.

9. Exceptions requiring manual review

A serious medical event preventing travel may be submitted with dated supporting evidence. Request a secure submission route before supplying medical records. Approval, waived fees, cash refunds and credit are not guaranteed. Partly used itinerary refunds, selected-segment cancellations, mixed-fare tickets, disputed ownership and guardianship also require review. For qualifying disruptions, Section 6 preserves the unused-portion refund entitlement while the amount is reviewed.

9.1 Supporting information and review outcome

Keep receipts and identify flown and unused segments when requesting a partial refund. The service desk confirms what evidence is needed. A review request is not an approval, and the standard rules remain applicable unless a specific exception is approved. No fixed review or refund-processing turnaround is promised here.

10. Topics not covered

Lounge access, pet transport, loyalty benefits and unaccompanied-minor travel services are not documented here. Contact the service desk for the applicable information; absence of a rule is neither permission nor a prohibition.
